WHAT WOULD YOU DO TO STOP
SUCH THINGS

President Wilson, while reviewing the Red Cross parade in New York, was greeted by a Canadian soldier, invalided home from the front, who had been taken into the Canadian army despite the fact that he was 54 years old when the authorities learned that his son was one of those that German soldiers crucified on a barn door. What would you do to stop such fiendish things? Do you think it much of a sacrifice to pledge yourself to save and to buy War Savings Stamps?

YET TO COME

It was Sergt. Louis Crafts who sent the drawing of camp life in France which was designed for publication this week. Owing to lack of help we will be unable to present the picture this week, but for next week will have it and a very interesting letter to share with readers.

BAYSIDE THEATRE

"The Cross Bearer" by William A. Brady a story built up about Cardinal Mercier will be presented in pictures at the Bayside Theatre next week featuring Montague Love. It is a good big picture, the one that stands them out at every performance.

KEEP YOUR LIBERTY BONDS
The prices of Liberty Bonds upon the stock market indicate clearly that it is easier to meet financial needs by selling Government securities than it is by selling securities of any other class. This very fact should be a strong deterrent influence which should keep people from selling Government bonds. It is quite likely that the retention of Liberty Bonds will prove to be a wise financial transaction.

From the standpoint of patriotism, which prompted the original purchase of Liberty Bonds, there can be no excuse whatever for disposing of them. The purchaser of a Liberty Bond makes a definite, specific act of handing over personal funds to the Government, thus providing actual money which can be used for military purposes. Each bond is thus transformed into a concrete, positive unit of labor which is expended in boating the enemy. The more bonds bought, the larger the volume of fresh effort contributed.

But the original purchaser of the bonds should keep them and not resell them to another person. If they are so resold, the bonds passed become instantly another's contribution, instead of that of the original purchaser. Public sentiment is now demanding absolute support of the war, and nothing but actual possession of the bonds, paid in full by the original purchaser, is complete satisfactory evidence of his contribution, made in that form, to American victory.

TO THE EDITOR:

The amount assigned to Cohasset as its share of the Second Red Cross War Fund was $7,902.00. The amount raised by the town is $15,971.05 which is 200 per cent of the quota.

The whole district, consisting of 37 cities and towns, contributed 165 per cent of its allotment. While the exact final standing of the various towns is not available it is fairly certain that Cohasset stands 7th or 8th in the list.

It is one more evidence of the patriotism and generosity of our citizens and they should be proud of it.

The American Red Cross sends its thanks to the faithful and efficient workers who have helped to accomplish this splendid result.

Herbert A. Tucker, Chairman,
Cohasset District.

WOMAN'S COMMITTEE OF THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

My Dear Mr. Mitchell:

The nation is sending an imperative call for young women to serve at once by entering the training schools of our military and civil hospitals. The demand is urgent. The critical need of graduate nurses, both in this country and abroad, renders it an imperative duty to recruit the greatest possible number of pupil nurses for immediate service. The Army Training School recently approved by the Secretary of War will offer an unsurpassed opportunity for young women eager to serve at once in cantonment hospitals of the United States, and we have been asked by the Surgeon General's office to do our utmost to help.

The State Council of National Defense is eager to further this recruiting in all possible ways, and to that end a sub-committee has been appointed. Simultaneously with the Red Cross Drive for graduate nurses to begin on June 10th, this committee will conduct a campaign to recruit young women for hospital schools.

In order to present this need to the entire State, if possible before July 1st, the chairman of each unit is requested to use every means in his power to make it known mother own coming. It is especially necessary to reach fathers and mothers, and young women between 21 and 35 years of age. You are therefore asked to obtain as much publicity as possible and if possible to hold a public meeting within the next two weeks to present the need for more pupil nurses in hospitals.

It is suggested that you should operate among others with the following organizations or persons in your community:

Red Cross Chapter, President of the Woman's Club, Counselor State Nurses Association, Mrs. A. C. MacNamara, 36 Woolson St., Mattapan, Superintendent of Hospital Training School, Public Health Nurse, Child Conservation Chairman, Child Conservation Supervisor, Miss Besom, State Dept. of Health, State House, Boston, Alumnae Association of Private and High Schools.

The committee will be glad to assist in every possible way. It is urged that local speakers should be enlisted. If outside speakers are needed the committee will lend all possible aid in obtaining them for communities willing to pay travelling expenses, but the committee cannot promise to obtain speakers at short notice. Application blanks should be provided for every meeting and will be furnished by the committee as soon as notified in regard to the number needed.

Information may be obtained from the Counsellor of the State Nurses Association, the Superintendent of the Local Hospital or from the Secretary of the Committee, Miss A. H. Strong, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston. Sincerely yours,

PAULINE R. THAYER, Chairman,
KATHARINE N. MEAD, Chairman,
Department of Maintenance of Social Agencies.

The above letter sent to Mrs. Carrie E. Mitchell tells its own story. We give it space at request of Mrs. Mitchell and as patriotic service.

GAS MASKS FOR HORSES

The Gas Defense Service is now manufacturing about 5,000 horse gas masks per day. These are being sent to France, and it is expected that within a short time every horse connected with the American Expeditionary Forces will be equipped with the new masks.

The Gas Defense Service has a completely equipped factory for the manufacture of the masks. In less than three weeks a building was selected and the factory was producing masks. The introduction of riveting machinery has done away with the heavy hand sewing of the frame which supports the masks on the faces of the horses. The masks are so constructed that no metal or chemically impregnated parts can chafe the horse.

This above humane sentiment converted into action, exemplifies "a merciful man is merciful to his beast."

I.O.O.F. MEMORIAL SERVICE

The memorial service of Old Colony Lodge, I. O. O. F., was held on Sunday, June 9th, at 10:45 a. m., at the M. E. church, Hingham, with appropriate and impressive exercises and sermon by Rev. Frank M. McKibben, pastor of the church. The call to worship with the people standing was given as follows: Minister, "Jehovah is in this place; this is none other than the House of God and this is the gate of Heaven." Response by the congregation, "Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight. Give us thy strength and we shall be saved." After singing, responsive reading and prayer, Sergt. Carol O. Brown sang a solo. The four members who have passed into the other life during the year are Kinsman S. Chamberlain, Louis G. Sirovich, William J. Picane, William A. Shaw. Rev. McKibben preached an eloquent sermon of hope. The service concluded with singing and benediction. The Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodge met at their hall and marched to the church in a body, wearing their regalia. Arriving at the church steps the Rebekah Lodge marched through the ranks of the Odd Fellows, which separated and stood at attention, and then filing in behind followed the Rebekahs into the church. A very pretty proceeding.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTER.

Mrs. Wm. C. Appleton who went to France to be near her son writes an interesting letter about one of the boys of Cohasset, which was sent to the boy's folks and Mrs. Ralph Place of Nantasket, a sister of Ellery Sidney, kindly gave it to us to publish. Ellery is well known and liked not only in Cohasset where his home is but at Hull and Nantasket where he has spent much time with his sister. We are all proud of Ellery and glad that he is such a hero. Mrs. Appleton could write about in such an interesting way. Mrs. Appleton is a typical American mother and I feel my heart swell with joy when I read this letter. I feel it an honor to be allowed to share this letter with the many readers who are so vitally interested in all "over there."

Extract from a letter of Mrs. Wm. C. Appleton to her sister, Miss Frances E. Turner, dated at Paris, May 21, 1918.

"I'm having a wonderful time working with our boys (in the hospital) and am so tired I can't write though I have oceans to say.

Such a nice boy from Cohasset—Ellery Sidney of Stockbridge street—called on me last night. He's stationed at Naval Headquarters, not far from here. I enjoyed him immensely and he said a thousand Liberty Motors had arrived—not planes—this week. He took three months Motor Mechanics training in Florida Naval Air Service. Had a fall in a plane over here and was in bed five weeks from it. Is right as a fiddle now.

He is full of interest in his job. He is in great luck. He was sent here with seven others to set up L motors in French bodies and when he arrived here it seems this office had five six-cylinder Packards. Their French chauffeurs were running; and the day the boys arrived they had discharged the French, and they put the boys in the Frenchmen's places. Consequently Sidney is visiting all the aviation stations about Paris every day, watching the building and going up in them, (the air-buses). His officers let him accompany them on inspection, etc., and twice a week he goes along the front to Dunkirk—stopping at all the grounds—he's learning an awful lot because of his general intelligence. Later he drives his officers to Italy, stopping at all the aviation fields on the way. He fully appreciates what is happening and is very happy.

Yesterday morning I had a letter from George Jason, Jr., at Cohasset, giving me his (Sidney's) name and Sidney had one from Mr. Jason giving my name, and he came right over, which was very nice.

At this moment I heard Appleton (Knowles') voice downstairs, and here it is 11:30 and we are having a raid. The anti-aircraft guns are making quite a racket. Appleton is going to mail this at the Continental when he goes home. He looks wonderfully well and seems very happy. (He had arrived in Paris from the U. S. two days before—in Red Cross Service.)

When you're fifty, your body begins to break a little at the hinges. Motion is slow and deliberate. "Not so young as I used to be," frequent and unwelcome come the words. Certain bodily functions upon which good health and general fitness so much depend, are impaired. The weak spot is generally the bladder. Unpleasant symptoms show themselves. Painful and annoying. This is particularly true with elderly people. If you only know how, this trouble can be obviated.

Do Dreams Come True?

By VINCENT G. PERRY

for the mayor to appear. How foolish she had been not to have realized it before!

What if the mayor had been looking from a window and seen the man snatch the box from under her arm! Wouldn't it be splendid to have him come to her rescue and tell Madame Wanda and the policemen that the story she had told them was true? The slight prospect of such an unlikely thing comforted her. At every new arrival in the corridor she looked up to see if it were he. When evening came and he had not appeared, her spirits still kept up. She was just dozing off to sleep when she heard Madame Wanda's voice. There was a man's voice, too. As they drew near her cell her heart beat rapidly. Had the mayor come? But it was not the mayor. It was just the night sergeant, who unlocked the door and told her she was free.

"It is in the paper," Madame Wanda started to explain. "The man who snatched your parcel was none other than the mayor, trying to hide his face from the eager camera men. Here is the picture of it."

Marcia Herns picked up the silk gown before her and gazed at it longingly before she folded it and put it in the delivery box. Would such a gown ever be hers? Not for a long, long time, if ever—the thought caused her to sigh wistfully. Would any of her dreams ever come true? She had dreamed of so many things and had had so many "castles in the air," but none of them had come true. She wondered whether such a gown would become her? To make sure, she removed it from the box and held it to her shoulders. She was still admiring it when a step behind her caused her to look up. It was Madame Wanda, the proprietress of the establishment.

"You will please put that gown in its box and deliver it at once, Miss Herns," Madame Wanda said icily.

"It was such a pretty gown, I could not help admiring it," Marcia apologized. She noticed the address on the box and smiled faintly. There was a long walk before her, but it would be a welcome change from the close confinement of the modiste's shop. As she was passing out, Marcia could not help glancing in the long mirror. She was shabby—she could not but admit it.

"I knew the mayor would save me," Marcia cried joyfully. Madame Wanda looked at her wonderingly, and the sergeant chuckled.

That evening found Mayor Charles Mason in his own apartment for the first evening in weeks. The paper before him was causing him a great deal of unrest.

"I never saw such a frightened look on a girl's face in my life," he said to himself. "What a cad I was to think only of myself and my desire to keep my picture out of the paper, for one edition at least. I wonder what was in the box?" He secured the box and examined the contents. That troubled him more than ever. "What if this girl has been accused of theft, lost her position or been arrested?" he went on, as he walked up and down the room. His servant interrupted him by announcing a caller.

Marcia entered the room, her cheeks glowing. "I have come for the dress," she began, "and I want to thank you for getting me out of jail."

He recognized her at once. "You weren't arrested?" he ejaculated.

"Yes, I was; but I didn't mind a hit," she answered. "It was just a little adventure, and an adventure is rare thing in the life of a seamstress."

After he had offered a score of apologies and explained the reason for his unseemly action, he handed Marcia the box.

"You have opened it," she said. "Isn't this a delightful gown?" "I haven't seen such or it," he confessed.

She took it out and held it up for his inspection. "My, I adore it," she said, "and I'd love to be the woman who owns it. I was pretending that I was when you took it yesterday. Maybe I will be able to afford one some day, for I finish my night course at the business college this month. Stenographers make good wages, don't they?"

After she had gone, Charles Mason sat back in his chair and laughed softly. What a trusting, sweet little girl she was, he thought. His life had been such a busy one, he had spent so much time making a success and reaching the place that he had attained that he had never thought of marrying before, but now, as he sat there a desire grew in his heart for some one to share his honors with him. Wouldn't the girl that had just left him make just the kind of wife a busy man like him needed—some one with a sweet smile and a trusting heart?

A week later an official-looking letter came to Marcia. She opened it eagerly.

"I've got a position as secretary in the mayor's office," she announced excitedly to the other girl. "No more hard times for me."

When she was leaving at the end of the week Madame Wanda presented her with a beautiful gown.

"It is present from the mayor to repay you for the inconvenience he put you to," Madame explained.

"It is just like the one I liked so much," she explained. "Isn't it wonderful to have a mayor for a friend, even though I had to be arrested to find him? My dreams all seem to be coming true at once."

"Just look how they read," returned the sexton, placing the numbers on the wall, "4-11-44."—Philadelphia Telegram.

Hard and Soft Water.

The difference between hard and soft water consists in that hard water contains certain salts that are not contained at all or in very small quantities in soft water. These are almost always calcium or magnesium salts, extracted from the earth through which the water has passed. It is, therefore, easy to understand why they are not contained in rain water, which is formed by the aqueous vapor more or less contained in the air.

When soap is employed with hard water there is produced a chemical transformation in which the soap is changed into a substance that does not dissolve in water, while soap used with soft water produces a substance that dissolves in water and gives an excellent lather, and is, therefore, good to wash with. Hard water can be distinguished from soft water by an examination with soap solution.

Bridging the Gap From Steer to Steak

Live stock is raised on the farms and ranches of the West.

Meat is eaten in the large cities of the East, and by our boys in France — thousands of miles away.

The day of transporting live animals from ranch to seaboard and overseas has passed. There was too much waste. The modern packer locates his large and specialized plants in the producing regions. He ships the dressed beef in refrigerator cars, and holds it in his own refrigerated branch warehouses until delivered to the retailer. For shipment to foreign ports, he transfers the meat to refrigerated ships.

By means of his nation-wide organization the modern packer maintains a continuous flow of meats to all parts of the country, so that each retailer gets just the quantity and quality of meat his trade demands, and at the time he wants it.

Swift & Company recently shipped 1,000 carloads of meat products in one week to our Armies and to the Allies.

Bridging the gap from ranch to consumer can be done successfully—and at low unit costs and profits—only by large business organizations.

Swift & Company's profit on meat, always so small as to have practically no effect on prices, is now limited by the Government to about 2 cents on each dollar of sales.

TOO OFTEN LACK HARMONY

Groups of Houses, Especially in Suburbs of American Cities, Express a Spirit of Unrest.

Harmony in design in groups of houses is coming to a sense of appreciation, as is evidenced by several housing schemes and the architectural treatment followed in certain developments.

The American, when he builds for himself, has a strong desire for individuality of expression. This is shown particularly in almost any suburb, where you will see a neighborhood of houses in which many styles of architecture, class of materials, color schemes, etc., are represented. The lines and shapes have no relation to each other, so that as you look at the group there is a spirit of unrest and clashing in many respects. The whole group lacks repose and the homelike feeling is interfered with, even although each individual house might be good enough in itself.

Possibly this result is a reaction from the individuals having previously lived in city rows of a stereotyped plan; thus, having been previously suppressed, when the opportunity offers, they go to an extreme of expression, or possibly it might in some cases be due to the architect's desire to have the individuality of the house stand out, or the wealth of materials and knowledge of styles which we have at our disposal may also tend to this variety in treatment. In any case the result is not entirely satisfactory and could be improved.

Variety and individuality sufficient for a reasonable nature may be obtained even when the buildings are designed with relation to each other, and harmonize in line, shape, materials, color, etc., and thus produce a more artistic and homelike feeling to each one and the entire group.

PIPE IS USED AS SPRINKLER

House Owner's Ingenious Scheme by Which Fence Is Made to Serve a Double Purpose.

Iron pipe  $\frac{3}{4}$  inch in diameter is extensively used for protecting the small grass spots between the sidewalk and the street curb, also between the sidewalk and the building, providing the space is not large. These plots are very difficult to keep watered in dry seasons. One resident owner made a combination fence, using the pipe for the sprinkling apparatus as well as for the guard. Small holes were drilled

In a row on the inside surface of the pipe and the whole line was connected with the water supply. In building such a protection be sure to have all joints watertight and the tees plugged that are used to connect the iron supports for the posts.—Popular Science Monthly.

Trees Benefit Community. Trees help to purify the air by absorbing the carbonic-acid gas exhaled by all animal life, giving back pure oxygen. Trees modify the temperature, especially in cities where the shade cuts off the direct and reflected heat from sidewalks, streets and buildings. Yet trees are a city's best asset merely because they bring an improvement in appearance. Thus does the tall wag the dog where the tale of trees is told and their death knell is not tolled.

ENORMOUS SAND DIGGER. A large ladder dredge has recently been constructed for use at Neville Island, Pittsburgh, for dredging sand and gravel. This dredge has a ladder that will reach 50 feet below the surface of the water. It brings up sand and gravel and delivers it into a revolving screen on the main deck. By means of secondary ladders the screened material is raised from tanks in the hull of the dredge to chutes that lead into barges alongside.—Scientific American.

YOU CAN'T ALWAYS TELL. In a London bus a man in civilian garb rose and offered his seat to a woman. "I never accept favors from slackers," she said witheringly. "Madam," he replied blandly, "I was all through Gallipoli, and if we'd had as much powder as you have on your face we'd have got to Constantinople in no time!"—Boston Transcript.

THEN HE STRAIGHTENED UP

General's Indignation Probably Made Him Forget His Aching Back for a Few Moments.

A newly arrived general stepped out of the staff car and was "taken over" by the guide who was to lead him on this particular part of his tour of inspection. The two went forward alone, and very soon the guide made a sign, and whispered to the general to leave the duck boards and come close in to the hedge. The general was tall, and he bent low to keep his head from showing above the hedge.

Now and again the general whispered a question, and the guide replied in reply. The former began to feel a pain in the back through so long maintaining a bent position.

"How far away is the nearest Boche?" whispered the general, thinking he might straighten his back and risk a sniper's bullet.

"About four miles," whispered the guide.

"Then what the deuce are you whispering for?" roared the general.

"Can't help it, sir. Been like it for three weeks. Worst cold I've ever had."

OLD PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK KIDNEYS

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This product, more particularly to a medicine, is especially popular because its therapeutic value almost sells itself, as it is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results. No other kidney remedy that I know of so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that so many people claim it fulfills all its promises in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores—Adv.

Not True.

Calvin, six years old, was taking a stroll through Irvington with his father.

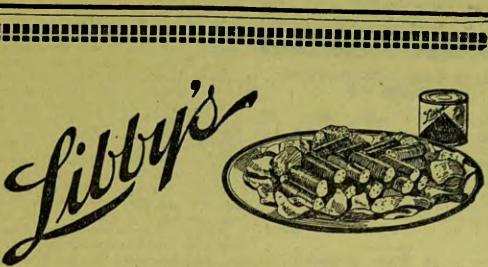

"What are those buildings over there?" the lad inquired.

"That's Butler college, son," the father replied.

"Oh, that's where men go down to learn to be butlers, isn't it?" pursued Calvin, and his father had difficulty in convincing him such was not the case.

Baby-Excluding Landlords.

James F. Gannon, Jr., Jersey City's commissioner of revenue, is out after landlords refusing to rent homes to families having babies. To such gentlemen he says: "If you insist on discriminating against families with children the city will raise your tax assessment to the limit. If you try to come back we will fight the case out before the bar of public opinion. And you will lose. For Jersey City is on the side of the babies, and don't you forget it!"

Residents around Straits Pond from both the Cohasset and Nantasket side have complained to the selectmen of the town of Cohasset about the unsightly condition of the pond; and they have promptly taken up the matter, and are planning to clean it up and to take steps to prevent overflowing, etc. Mr. Stanford of the Black Rock House has offered to pay one-third the expense if Cohasset will pay another third and Hull another. the cottage colony as this season at this date.

It is purposed to have a bevy of young ladies in autos with a Captain, a Secretary, a speaker to address the autoists on Sunday in the drive to sell or get pledges for the 50,000 dollars worth of War Saving Stamps which is the town's quota. Better be in a generous mood and buy or pledge or you will be put down by Uncle Sam and the charming girls as a piker.

Mr. Frank Hickey and Mr. Walter Gallagher have always trained with successful campaigns and have accomplished what has been assigned them and they both announce that this drive is going over the top. Uncle Sam says "on June 20 you'll be on record as with me against 'em" and the campaign manager has announced in no uncertain terms that he is going to report pikers to our Uncle.

SOLDIER'S LETTER

Editor's Note—Many friends who have read the following letter have requested that it be printed and it is with a feeling of great rejoicing that I do this for who would not feel one's heart swell with pride at such a spirit as is shown by this brave boy.

On Active Service with the American Expeditionary Force

April 6, 1918.

Dearest Mother:

I wrote you a letter yesterday but did not have much time to write as the mail was going out at once, so I am writing you another today. I suppose you find it a long time between letters but as I told you in one letter mother, it is next to impossible to write regular from now on as we have been moving around a great deal in fact have seen the greater part of France now, I wish I could tell you of some of the historic places we have passed through as well as some of the other things that have happened, you know we are real soldiers now and ready for anything that may happen and believe me we can give a mighty good account of ourselves any time the Boche is looking for trouble. Our regiment is a wonder Mother, and I wish you could see us go into the front lines ready for action, steel hats, gas masks, and full equipment and every man knows just what to do, thanks to the fine training that we have received. There is not such a thing as fear in any man now and we just let the Boche pound away and believe me, it is some racket at times and your wildest imagination could not picture some of the scenes I have witnessed when standing to our guns on a dark night in a lonely spot with the Boche but a few hundred yards ahead of us with the shells whistling over head from both sides and bursting with such a noise you can hardly hear yourself think, well Mother dear, I shall never forget how proud I felt the first night I took up my post on the front line, after marching through what seemed an endless, winding trench, I last arrived at my post, and relieved the men that were there. After receiving my instructions I set up my gun, myself and the two men that work with me stood very quiet for some time watching the wire carefully that was in front of us, once in a while we would whisper to each other. We felt as though we could lick the whole Boche army alone. There was no shooting, everything very quiet. It was a fine night, and now comes the funny part, and I suppose every man understood about the same feeling the first time he is under fire. I know a soldier gets over it quick anyhow for I have no such feeling now. One of the fellows with me had just remarked in a whisper what a cinch it was in the front line, when there came a roar and the big babies began landing all around us and shaking the earth. We ducked our heads as the pieces of steel went over us. I thought of every thing I ever done in this world and my knees were keeping time to the tune of "Home, Sweet Home." My teeth rattled so I was afraid the filling would come out. I thought of saying a prayer but it was no use, couldn't piece it together now, ha, ha, it's sure made me laugh afterwards; when I thought of it after a minute or so we were as calm as a mill pond, we were broken in, and will never feel that way again, and is now a cause for a joke when we burst close. I bet you will have some laugh when you picture me in your mind that first night. I have had quite a few of those nights since, but don't mind them any more and we have bigger work cut out for us, believe me, but we are ready and will sure win out and whether we ever come back or not the people at home will forever be proud of the dandy 101st.

Now Mother about the way we are being treated. I happened to pick up an old Boston paper the other day (I don't know if you read the article or not) it stated that a great many of the mothers at home were worrying over their boys here in France and thinking they were being mistreated by the officers, that they were sent into the trenches half trained and all that kind of rot, now I have been here for about eight months and should know a little about this game, to be sure we have to put up with a lot of hardships, it cannot be avoided, but a good soldier will not grumble very much if there is any backbone in him, it is the fellows, Mother, that has a spine like a jelly fish and no sand or grit that manage to rot that stuff home somehow and start women to worry. These same women must remember that this is no sign tea, but a man's job, if ever there was one and if he hasn't got grit he is no good in this game. As for sending in to fight unarmed I want to say that it is a lie for we receive the very best of training by mighty good officers and experts in all lines; as for the officers abusing us that is absurd, if one behaves himself, if he does not he is punished, which is right and proper and deserves all he gets for this is a mighty serious game we are in and the disaster to the whole lot of us. So I hope you hear any of that stuff in the stories it is for us, Mother. Well here isn't very much I can write to you about as regards myself, only that my spirit is very good, or should I say courage! Also my health is not a cause for worry as I can prove by a walk we recently had of about 100 kilometers or about seventy-five miles carrying a heavy load. It was kind of tough, but I finished of course with a few blisters on my underpinning and a little weight gone but am feeling fine now. I hope everybody is well at home and that you are getting some money by now if not Mother, have patience for you will soon say you never ask for anything when I write, well, there is nothing that I really need at present if I should I will let you know, in the meantime save that money Mother for yourself, for you know it need more than I do. thank you just the same for asking me if I need anything.

Tell Jim I will beat him out a game of chess if I get back. Well, Mother, I will close with love to all and for your best of luck,

Your loving son, RAY.

An item of interest and importance it would seem is this: On the recent initial trip of the mail airplane from New York to Boston via Saugus, Mass., about 50 special delivery letters came in that mail to summer residents of Cohasset. The cost of sending a letter via airplane express was 2¢.

Mr. Earle, our genial postmaster, very kindly permitted the C. C. to see one of these envelopes. The letter was from the Aero Club of New York City and the circled enclosing date, New York, June 3, had "Airplane Service Trial Trip" written around and enclosed in the circle. At the left hand lower corner was a wing sketched in red ink at either side of the words via airplane. The postage stamp was for 2¢. These letters will be a very interesting and memorable souvenir of an historical and extremely noteworthy event in the history of the U. S. and the C. C. is grateful to the postmaster for his courtesy and is glad to have seen even an envelope which came on the initial trip of the mail airplane between New York and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tuckerman are occupying the home formerly the summer home of Mrs. Channing Clapp.

Miss Clara Eunice has taken the position at E. A. Souther's store formerly held by Miss Mary Fleming. Mr. Souther is very fortunate in securing such efficient and agreeable lady clerks.

Bishop and Mrs. Samuel Babcock of Boston arrived in town for the summer on Monday of this week and will occupy the house formerly the home of Mr. John Sullivan opposite the Town Landing and now the property of Mr. Alacor, oculist.

Miss Gertrude Williams entertained her friends by a dance at the Yacht Club House last Saturday night.

Another committee of the Cohasset Branch of the American Red Cross organization has been formed last Thursday evening, which is the Home Service Committee with Dr. D. W. Gilbert, chairman and Russell B. Tower, secretary. The purpose of this committee is to coordinate with the other branches of the Red Cross work in all kinds of relief work, which will serve to assist the families of those in the U. S. service—such as insurance, train service, etc. The legal advisor of the committee is Mr. Walter Schubert and his services are available for all families of men in service. Further information regarding the activities of this committee will be published from time to time. Another member of the committee is Miss Agnes Weir, District Nurse, who will serve as social service worker of committee. This committee does not supplant or replace any order relief agencies but plans to coordinate with all such under the Red Cross whose ability to communicate between the men and their families is far more reaching than that of any other organization.

A Community Canning Club will be held this summer at the Bates building under management of the Social Service.

Miss Mary Schell, amnt of Mrs. A. H. Bartow, is occupying the "Rectory" this summer.

An exhibition of sloyd, sewing and drawing by pupils of Osgood school has been given this week at Bates building.

Miss Ethel Bowman is home on vacation from the college in Baltimore, where she teaches.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Furber are summering with Mrs. Julia Furber at the homestead on North Main street.

A large delegation of friends and relatives went to the Catholic Church and Centenary, at Seituah on Memorial Day, where a handsome Calix cross given by his relatives was dedicated to the late Rev. Fr. Brogan, who died in January, 1917. High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Crayton of St. Anthony's Church, Cohasset.

Rev. H. K. Bartow's family have removed to the house owned by Mrs. Bartow and formerly occupied by Mr. J. W. Tuckerman.

It is hoped that the Community Market, which served the public so successfully last year may be again maintained this season. There is no question regarding the patronage the public will give this market, as they bought so freely last year, and we trust our farmers as well as those from nearby towns will take pity on those who have no gardens and place at reasonable prices a part at least of their surplus farm produce where it can be bought by those who need them in these days when the high prices and scarcity of foodstuffs to be bought at stores make it very hard for the laboring man's family to live.

Mrs. Dolan, widow of John Dolan, passed away at her home on North Main street on Monday of this week, being over 80 years of age. She is survived by two sons, James and Wm. Dolan and one daughter, Miss Mary Dolan, also four grandchildren. Rev. Fr. Sherry of South Boston officiated at the funeral held Thursday at nine o'clock from St. Anthony's Church. Burial was at Woodsdale Cemetery.

Miss Julia Henry has gone to St. John, N. B., for the summer.

The dirigible balloon invented at Chatham, Mass., and tried out last week, was seen by several in town as it passed over. It was said to resemble a cigar in shape.

An interesting incident spoken of by the late Mr. Franklin Treat in his memoirs of his experiences in the Civil War was to the effect that when serving at the guns with his brother John and others at Flag Fort in the battle of Winchester, Va., June 14-15, 1863, a solid shot weighing 12 lbs and as big as a man's head struck the top of the breastworks, which were about four feet high, and rolled down inside the fort under the guns where they were.

Had it been a shell instead it would have exploded and it would have been "all day" with them. By such hairbreadth happenings do lives hang in the balance in war times.

Cohasset may well be proud of its sons and the splendid service they are rendering on land and sea in the present war and also of her adopted sons or those who while not claiming residence here may yet claim relatives with whom they have lived or visited. Some of these have been born here. Such a one is Norman Cann, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Cann of Sharon and grandson of Sheriff Edward E. Wentworth of Cohasset, who according to the Sunday Globe, June 9th, 1918, was one of those heroes who volunteered for inoculation for trench fever, in order that the disease and the attendant combatting of it may be better understood and lives now lost be saved in consequence.

He has now recovered and can feel proud and glad that he contributed by placing his life at their disposal together with 59 other Yankees in order that the experiment may be tried out.

According to his letter it was a great success. He is a graduate of Sharon High School last June and enlisted that week in an ambulance corps. His father and mother (nee Abbie Wentworth) are both well known among the native residents. Mrs. Cann having been born here and grew up here and Mr. Cann living here for a few years previous to marriage. They are to be congratulated on having such a hero for a son, to face a dread disease requires more courage oftentimes than facing shot and shell.

Mrs. Harry Mayes lived in the old Briggs house, where she was born, built by her father instead of the old brick house as inscribed in last week's issue.

VERSES WANTED

The Liberty Loan Committee of New England invites contributions of verses to be used in the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign. There should not be more than four stanzas of four lines each, or two stanzas of eight lines each. They should be simple in form and lyrical. Verses may combine patriotism and non-sectarian religious feelings suitable for church services, or they may be secular and stirring, referring to Liberty Bonds, for use in Liberty Loan rallies. The authors will be requested to contribute their verses, which may be sent to John K. Allen, Chairman of the Publicity Committee, Liberty Loan Committee of New England, 30 Kirby Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

THESSPIAN TOPICS

At the Town Hall Theatre on Saturday evening the feature reel will be Marguerite Clark in "Bob's Diary." The tenth and last part of the Grand Serial Picture, "The Sons of Democracy," the Life of Abraham Lincoln will also be shown on the screen. Mr. Quiry of Boston will again entertain the audience with his various selections.

The management of the Town Hall Theatre announces a "special show" for Monday evening, June 17th. The leading feature will be Maciste in "The Warrior," a seven reel war photo film, showing action and work of the soldiers on the European battle fields. Don't miss it, as it is one of the great war pictures, and which will bring home to us what the allied armies are doing for the cause of humanity. Notice the Italian battle front and the Italian soldiers battling in the Alps and one will realize what this nation is doing to protect itself from the barbarity of the Hunns.

CANNON FIRE THE ONLY MUSIC TO HELP THE GISH GIRLS.

No Violin to Play Sobby Strains While Griffith Stars Enact Big Scenes for "Hearts of the World."

How often have we heard of emotional actresses in motion pictures who insist they cannot properly "emote" unless there is a violin at hand to play sobby music. And we recall one very famous screen star who demands that an entire orchestra be furnished in order that her temperament be escorted to the ethereal realms of frenzy.

Now comes Dorothy Gish, who with her sister, Lillian, appears prominently in the cast of "Hearts of the World" at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, and knocks the emotional music theory into a cocked hat. Little Dorothy claims it would be very embarrassing to D. W. Griffith if she or her sister insisted on doing all the future emotional scenes to the same music that accompanied the taking of the latest picture, "Hearts of the World."

Says Dorothy: "It would cost Mr. Griffith the mere matter of a million dollars or more to provide the "inidental sounds." The obligato for our emotional scenes was provided by several hundred British cannon standing almost wheel to wheel and pounding shrapnel and explosive shells into the trenches of the Boche. The under note of the orchestra that supplied the music for the taking of our screen play was supplied by the rattle and crash of machine guns in action. The only whines and whimper that inspired us in our work for "Hearts of the World" were the Hun shells singing overhead, as they hunted their victims, the sputter of the motor ambulances hurrying to the rear with the wounded; the distant chattering of the airplanes ceaselessly encircling the trenches overhead."

Never have actresses registered the emotions of a mimic play under such extraordinary circumstances! And never have they exploded the theory of "necessary emotional music" as a necessity in the present instance.

Now Comes Commencement Day

Vacation is near and already prepared for with colored wash dresses, bloomers and blouse suits for play and work outdoors in Hingham and other serviceable cottons. And now comes commencement day with teachers everywhere recommending the simplest of frocks for these exhibition days, because these are war times. But when one is about to graduate with ceremony into or out of fractions and other difficult things of school life one is entitled to consideration. Usually the young person from eight to twelve or so has very decided ideas as to whether she shall be clothed and mothers are inclined to make concessions when the great last day of school comes round.

Even a little girl may be allowed the splendor of silk in a frock that is simply made like that shown at the left of the picture above. It is of infantia, which is best suited to children. In a light sand color, with collar and cuffs of white organdie and it is cut in one of those little jacket effects which have so much style. The frock buttons over at the front with four large pearl buttons and is no more pretentious than one of Hingham so far as design is concerned. It is a splendid model for the plump little girl who cannot wear furbelows.

Next to it is a little dress of white voile with bands of light blue or-gandie set in at the yoke and neck and down the front. It is very likely to catch the admiring eyes of mothers and little daughters for it has rows of beading between shirrings that allow narrow blue velvet ribbon to be run through. The sleeves are three-quarter length and there is a wide kick-over above the three-inch hem.

Both these dresses will give good service and prove equal to any summer festivities that may happen along in the long vacation. Great attention has been given to design in children's dresses this season and the work of specialists is evident in displays of inexpensive wash dresses sold ready-made for so little that it is hardly worth while to make them.

New Departures in Millinery

One must be thoroughly versed in the art of millinery to recognize all the gradations in the several types of hats. It is getting a little difficult for the amateur to classify them, but the expert places each hat at a glance. This variation of the different types gives more room than ever for the exercise of individual taste and discrimination, but in classifying the new hats we must take the expert's word for it.

With this explanation the statement that the large hat shown at the left of the picture above belongs among sport hats, may stand a chance of being believed. This is a sport hat de luxe, that is, a dressy hat that reflects sports styles. It has made its appearance along with sport skirts of heavy, high-luster satin and sleeveless velvet coats. A new name is needed for this particular kind of apparel in which women lend countenance to sports. A very handsome French hat of this kind was made by covering a large shape of grass-green coconut braid with flowered chiffon in gay colors and patterns that resemble cretonne. The chiffon is stretched over the crown and upper brim smoothly. About the hat there are small clusters of green oats, little crabapples and blackberries, set at the base of the crown.

At the right of the picture a sailor hat with leghorn brim and tinsam crown is trimmed with a fancy feather made of partly buried and partly natural ostrich. The shape proclaims a street hat and its trimming lifts it into the plane of semidress hats that are so highly useful. The small Tuscan hat with its sash of ribbon and facing of crepe supports a huge ostrich plume that is splendid enough for any state occasion. We do not need the word of an expert to decide that this is a dress hat pure and simple, more accurately described as pure and complex.

Julia Bottomly

Shapes Are Novel.

The simpler the parasol, the smarter it is. Prevailing shapes are very novel, few, indeed, following the lines of the old-time umbrella. The handles are of medium length with wrist loops or rings, which make them easy to carry. An artistic affair is of rose-colored taffeta effectively trimmed with ruffles of soft material.

Beads! Beads!

Evening scarfs of net and georgette are edged with embroidery of beads of various colors. Iridescent beads give a brilliant effect on some of the white scarfs. Rely opalescent tones may be produced by the skillful manipulating of these iridescent beads. Bead fringes on handbags of velvet, as well as on those made entirely of beads, are effective. One attractive bag consists of a series of bead fringes from top to bottom.

EXPERT'S TRIBUTE TO WESTERN CANADA SOIL

That there is good reason for the wonderful crops of grain grown in Western Canada, which have made thousands of former residents of the United States wealthy, is not always given the thought that it deserves is quite apparent. But that there must be a reason is quite evident. Probably more than one—but the one that requires emphasis—is that the soil is of the nature that will produce good crops. It was not long since that the farmer selected his land in the most haphazard way. He need not do so today. He will select it on the soil analysis plan. Soil from Western Canada was submitted to Prof. Stevens, soil physicist of the State College of Washington, at Pullman, Wash. His report should no doubt further encourage settlement in Western Canada. It reads as follows:

"We have analyzed this sample and find that it runs high in lime, very high in potash, phosphorus and nitrogen; that it has a splendid supply of organic matter and is in the best of physical condition. There is nothing wrong with this soil from the standpoint of crop production, and I am satisfied that it will give splendid results wherever put under cultivation."

It is so like this property worked, and on scientific lines, as is the rule today, that gives the opportunity to quote the experiences of farmers who have increased their incomes from $500 to $30,000 in two seasons, and whose story would read as follows:

"I have threshed altogether 7,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern wheat from 200 acres, which went from 24 to 58 per acre—sod breaking 24, spring plowing 36, back setting 56 bushels—the average being 35 bushels per acre."

The newspaper giving an account of this man's experience says: "When he disposed of his 1,800 acres from north of Brooks, Alta., to four Oak Harbor men, he was worth $30,000. Two years ago he came here with $500 and a few horses."

It is the soil of Western Canada, and the knowledge of what it will do that brings to Canada the hundreds of settlers that are daily arriving at the border. A growing enthusiasm for the fertile prairie lands of Western Canada is the recognition of the fact that sufficient food could be produced on these prairie lands to feed the world. From the south, east and west, hundreds of men, too old for military service, are pouring into Western Canada to take up land or to work on the farms. A great many of the incoming settlers have arrived at such central points as Calgary, Edmonton, and Lethbridge, Alberta, and at Regina, Moose Jaw, and Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. Judging from the bulk of their household effects, the number of their horses and cattle, and the quantity of implements they are bringing with them, most of the new arrivals seem well blessed with the world's goods.

Reports from North Portal, Saskatchewan; Coutts, Alberta, and Kingsgate, British Columbia—the principal gateways into Western Canada from the United States—indicate that the present influx of farmers is in such volume as has not been witnessed for many years. From Vancouver, British Columbia, people are going to the prairies for summer farm work, many with the intention of taking up land themselves at the end of the summer.

The influence of this tide of farmer settlers on greater food production will be more readily appreciated when it is considered that the average settler takes up at least twice as much land as he has hitherto been farming—and land which, acre for acre, produces better and larger crops.—Advertisement

Wouldn't Do for Willie.

Senator William A. Smith of Michigan smiled when reference at a dinner was made to those who are not satisfied with a fair proportion of things. He said he was reminded of a case along that line.

Little Willie was rambling along the street one afternoon, when he saw a bunch of puppies in the show window of a pet store. One long, fond look and then Willie hastened inside.

"Mister," said he, addressing the proprietor, "how much is them pups in the window?"

"Three dollars apiece," answered the proprietor. "They are—"

"Three dollars apiece," interjected Willie, with a thoughtful expression. "Nothin' doin', mister; I don't want a chunk; I want a whole dog."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

U. S. TROOPS SING BEFORE BATTLES

True Stuff in Average American Appears When He Goes Into Action.

CLEAN HEART AND MOTIVES

Yankee Drops All Foolishness and Horseplay Before He Goes Into Battle—Courage and Determination in Every Face.

With the American Army in France:—The true stuff that is in the average American soldier comes to the surface just before he goes into battle.

The hour comes when he suddenly quits all foolishness and horseplay with his fellows and settles down to a lot of sober thinking.

Far from being the rough, careless fellow that his life back of the lines might often indicate, he stands out as a young man with clean heart and motives, fully alive to the dangers he is going into, but possessing a high patriotism and courage and a determination to see the thing through regardless of the cost to himself.

America's interests will always be safe in the hands of such young men.

No Faltering Displayed.

They have felt, before the command to go forward was given, that their names would likely figure in the casualty lists within a very few days.

But there was no faltering. Never in my life have I seen such nobility of countenance. On every face there appeared the light of an iron resolve, writes C. C. Lyon in the Chicago Post.

A soldier can be judged by the songs he sings.

The Y. M. C. A. has done a most valuable work, through its musicians and entertainers, in breaking the terrible tension that must necessarily hang over the army just before a big engagement.

Every evening Y. M. C. A. song leaders went from battalion to battalion, assembling the boys and having them join in songs.

I went out several evenings with a young fellow named Mee, who in civilian life is a professional song director.

Nearly every soldier had been provided with one of the Y. M. C. A.'s "soldiers' song sheets," containing some 65 soldier songs. In the list were "Cuddle Up a Little Closer," "I Wish I Had a Girl," "Oh, You Beautiful Doll," "Oh, My Darling Clementine," "Polly-Wolly-Doodle" and others of similar mushiness.

But not once did I hear a soldier call for one of these songs. They were popular stuff in the care-free, rollicking days back in the rest camps, but the boys had no heart for them as they waited, within earshot of the big guns, to go into action.

When Director Mee would say: "What'll we sing, fellows? Name it," calls would go up on all sides for "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "There's a Long, Long Trail," "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean," "Little

Though Blind, He Wants to Get Hands on "Bill"

Albany, N. Y.—Joseph Carroll of this city is blind, but he knows he could "get" the kaiser.

Carroll was called before a local draft board. He appeared, led by his mother, and was immediately rejected. In sorrow he told the physicians, "I may be blind, but I know I could get my hands on that kaiser." He was insistent that he be given opportunity to do something for Uncle Sam.

Dying, Gives All to U. S.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am going to die in a few weeks," said a man plainly broken in health as he dropped $450 in bills on the counter of a Liberty Loan booth here. "I drew that money out of the bank to give to Uncle Sam. I don't want bonds—the money is a gift." The donor then hurried away without leaving his name.

Fighting for Home.

"Boys whose thoughts go back, thousands of miles across the ocean to their mothers and their sweethearts, can generally be depended upon in a pinch," a colonel said to me one evening, as he stood on the outskirts of the crowd listening to the singing.

"These boys think they have to show a rough exterior to one another in the army, but at rock bottom, they're pure gold," he added.

Letter-writing increased three-fold among the boys after they reached the threshold of the big battle. The boys have no illusions as to what they're getting into. They're determined that it shall be said of them, if they die, that they gave a good account of themselves.

FLIES TWO HOURS; PILOTS ARE DEAD

British Crew Slain in Fight, but Machine Goes on in Wide Circle.

AMAZING TALE OF THE AIR

Bristol Machine Disposes of Enemy, Then Continues Flight With Both Occupants Dead, Until Petroleum Gives Out.

London.—An amazing flight of a British airplane for two hours with its two occupants dead was briefly referred to in a dispatch from the fighting front the other day. Now fuller details are supplied by a well-known flying officer who has returned to London from Arras.

"The incident referred to," he said, "is quite authentic and was a common topic of conversation a few days ago. Of course, there is absolutely no reason why a machine should not, under average conditions, fly itself so long as its petrol holds out. This is not an exceptional incident of the kind, and certainly there have been cases where German machines have been captured with their pilots dead.

The Known Facts.

"So far as I know the facts are that this Bristol fighter, which, of course, is a two-seater with guns fore and aft, took off about 1:30 p. m. The wind conditions were almost negligible, making it very good flying weather. There was a great deal of miscellaneous craft widely scattered over "No Man's Land."

"The British aircraft, at an estimated altitude of 3,500 feet, when they would be running at eighty miles or thereabouts, encountered a German albatross. They at once attacked. A lot of maneuvering followed and three

PATRIOTIC TO PROTECT BIRDS

Helping to Save Our Feathered Friends Means Also Helping Save the Food Crops.

The work done by birds in saving food by destroying injurious insects and weed seeds is almost unbelievable, but the figures given here are vouchered for by scientists. For instance:

A scarlet tanager ate 630 gypsy-moth caterpillars in 18 minutes, which is at the rate of 2,100 an hour.

The quail, most hunted bird of the state, has no bad habits and eats 145 species of insects in summer and 120 kinds of harmful weeds seeds in winter.

A flicker was found to have eaten 1,000 chin-chugs; a nighthawk, 600 grasshoppers; a Maryland yellowthroat 3,500 plant lice in 40 minutes.

The stomach of a cedar waxwing contained 100 canker worms; a snow bunting was found to have eaten 1,000 pigeon seed, a Bob White made a meal on 5,000 seeds of the same plant, and a mourning dove ate 7,500 seeds of yellow sorel.

Professor Beale estimated that in town the tree sparrow eats 875 tons of weed seeds every year.

The robin, the flicker, the thrush, all found frequently in the game bag of the hunter, subsist largely on a diet of ants, beetles, bugs, flies, grasshoppers, caterpillars and spiders.

Just a Matter of Place.

The conversation at a social gathering turned to the subject of domestic arguments when the story was fittingly related by Congressman James A. Gallivan of Massachusetts.

One morning a hard-headed individual, carrying a grip, entered a city bank and approached the window of the paying teller.

"I want one thousand dollars," said the man in a low voice. "Give it to me at once or I will drop this grip on the floor."

"You will, will you?" responded the paying teller. "What's in it?"

"Dynamite," answered the other; "and in one minute you will be going through the roof."

"Let her drop," was the carefree rejoinder of the teller. "I have forgotten something that I was told to get for my wife and I might as well have the explosion here as at home."

Not the Reply She Expected.

"Pa, should I marry a man without any money?"

"If you're looking to me to furnish the cash that's the way you'll have to marry him."

PADDED CELL MAKER EXEMPT

Britain Releases 'Specialist' in Providing for Lunatics From War Service.

London.—The military tribunals have granted exemption from military service to William Fuller, who is described in the official report as a "specialist in the construction of padded cells."

His firm is the only firm in England engaged in the manufacture of padded cells for lunatic asylums, police institutions and hospitals, and the tribunal found that "there is not a man in Great Britain who can take the place of this applicant."

A model of a padded cell, showing the intricacies of its construction, was brought before the tribunal, together with a list of the "urgent orders" awaiting the attention of the applicant.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them,"—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary. Every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a try trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal."

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A NEW SERVICE

A subject for an editorial was presented by a Y. M. C. A. worker when he suggested that I say something about the owners of autos with patriotic insignia upon the cars who pass soldiers walking upon the road. Often these soldiers are sent from one place to another to report for duty, and the walk is long and hot, take them in and give them a lift; they may be "over there" next month fighting for you, making it possible for you to ride in your auto in safety. It is an honor to be a soldier in your car, and the more soldiers the more honor. One or two cars have, gone whizzing by the writer which were simply loaded down with the boys in khaki and she stood in admiration.
